

ESTABLISHING WIRELESS CONNECTIONS

Abstract of the Disclosure

A consumer and a cableless provider may quickly establish connections with one another by setting up
5 certain profiles within the consumer. When the cableless provider is identified, the profiles stored within the consumer may be utilized to quickly establish a communication protocol without the need to repeatedly 10 exchange this information between the consumer and cableless provider. As a result, communications may be established more quickly, saving time and reducing power consumption.